Anthony is a member of Rembolt Ludtke's estate planning and business services practice groups. He was raised on a grain and livestock farm north of Lincoln, and due to this rural upbringing, Anthony enjoys splitting time between the firm's Seward and Lincoln offices. He plans to develop a robust practice encompassing water law, estate, tax, and business planning, agricultural technology, regulatory compliance, and helping entrepreneurs address their legal needs. Anthony currently resides with his wife in Lincoln, and enjoys running, reading, and all forms of outdoor recreation.
